BOO OUR SNAKE STORY -- A week or two ago we published a snake story. If was about a young fellow by the name of Pay, who resides about six miles east of the city, on the National road, and who capture in all the newspapers of the country and other hand, talk impudently and defiantly. we have been somewhat hurt to find our veracity in the matter almost universally doubted. We assure our cotemporaries that the story is more than true. We have since seen and heard a great deal more of this fellow Fay and his doings with snakes. He will capture a given number of snakes as readily as one would find a given number of minuows in the creek along whose banks the fellow resides, and he will bite their heads off with no more concern than he would manifest in biting off a chew of dog leg tobacco. It is known that he has bitten the heads off at least one or two hundred suakes at different times during the present spring. As we said before he has but one or two teeth in his upper jaw. and he is compelled to chew and tear the heads in order to separate them from the bodies, the repulsa swing alive and squirming horribly. Among the snakes which he delights to fondle are the species known as house adders, which he finds in old hay and straw stacks.

There is something in the expression of Fay's countenance, particularly in his eyes, which is suggestive of something snakya something which we cannot describe He reminds us of Holmes' Elsie Venner His eyes ase small, black, liquid and rest

Another peculiarity about the fellow is that the dogs are all afraid of him or else he exercises some charm upon the "K 9" species. He will go into a yard or house in the middle of the night, unloose the most ferocious dog and kick him bowling into the street. He has done this repeatedly with very savage dogs in the neighborhood, which no person, other than those with whom the dogs are acquainted, dare approach.

THE FIRST VIRGINIA REGIMENT SRIELD'S BRIGADS .- Mr. Theodore Gorrell returned vesterday from Predericksburgh. Va. He left the Camp of the First Virginis Regiment near that place on Sanday last. Shields' brigade had marching orders and had already started toward Catlett's Station en route Mr. F., thinks for Front Royal, with a view of re-inforcing Gen Banks. Mr. Gorrell marched with the division from Front Royal to Fredericksburg, and he describes it as a pretty hard march particutarly upon fences and feet. He says that when the division went into Camp at night they would wipe out a mile or so of fencing almost as quick as one would wipe out a chalk mark with a wet sponge. The men burned rails almost exclusively, for cooking and for building buts. When the division reached Fredericksburg, they were ragged and foot sore and presented a sad contrast with the well dressed and well equipped army of Gen. McDowell. However, they were almost immediately supplied with new guns and new clothing. The Virginians had set their hearts upon going to Richmond, and the order to turn back was received with many mutterings and complaints.

The troops were again brigaded at Fredericksburg and the First Virginia Infan-Cavalry and Daum's battery were placed in the brigade commanded by Col. Carroll, of Ohio.

When Mr. Gorrell left Fredericksburg the army of Gen. McDowell were crossing the Rappahanock river, which is there a half a mile wide, upon pontoon bridges constructed near where the old bridges were destroyed. The First Virginia Regiment now has 640 effective men. The balance are in the hospitals, except the few who are in their graves or have been discharged.

THE BALTIMORE & OHIO R. R .- It has not yet been ascertained whether the rebels have done any considerable damage to the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, in the vicinity of Martinsburg. The road is all right as far as Back Creek, where a bridge is damaged, but beyond that point as far as Halltown nothing is known. From the movements, however, now on foot, there is reason to believe that trains will be running through from this point to Baltimore in

THE SPRIGG HOUSE HOSPITAL. There are now about one hundred patients in this hospital, most of whom are afflicted with chronic diseases, and are able to walk about. The hospital is now in charge of Dr. W. F. Swalm, who was captured at the Bull Run battle, and who was in Riehmond for four months with the rest of our pris-

ARREST OF A RESEL GUIDE.-A man by the name of Abbot Talbot was arrested yesterday at Grafton, by Deputy Marshal Purington, and brought to this city yesterday and confined in the Atheneum. Talbott acted as guide for Garnett's forces last spring, and has been prowling about in the mountains ever since.

Among the rebel prisoners brought up yesterday on the steamer Glenwood, was Mord. Suiter, of Bethany, who ran away some time last May and joined the rebel army. He has got his rights now, and we presume he is satisfied.

"We are now looking to Gen. Johnson with great interest and not without some solicitude. He has just beautifully execusolicitude. He has just beautifully exclusive ted some very judicious retreats. We are now auxious to see him display the more positive qualities of a military commander. The time has come when retreat is no longer strategy or disaster; it must therefore give place to battle. We have no idea that Johnson contemplates a retreat. We are perfectly satisfied that he does not perfectly satished that if he did contemplate it he would find himself unable to execute it.
